Date: 10/23/2018

Location: Plex Basement

- ii. Chicago Humanities Festival (Oct 27-Nov. 11); CHF@NU, Sun., Oct 28
<https://www.humanities.northwestern.edu/public-humanities/chicago-humanities-festival/>
 - iii. Tonight is a One Book-related program at Willard (B72, 7- 8pm) - The Handmaid's Tale - both the original book and now the Hulu TV series - lays out a dystopian vision of a world where trauma is a pervasive experience, particularly for the female protagonists of Gilead. Ben Gorvine, Willard Faculty-In-Residence and Associate Professor of Instruction in the Psychology department, Sekile Nzinga-Johnson, Director of the Women's Center, Kanika Wadhwa, Women's Advocacy and Wellness Specialist at CAPS, and Saed Deryck Hill, Assistant Director of Prevention and Men's Engagement for CARE, will facilitate discussion around the themes of trauma in the book and series — both in terms of its treatment in the source material, and the potential for trauma reactions among readers and viewers. If your schedule allows - I hope you will attend.
 - iv. Mallory had Peter and Nancy sign vouchers (reimbursement to Benjy for copies; reimbursement to Charlotte for Project Pumpkin candy/give-aways; transfer voucher for formal tickets from RCs)
 - v. What is the status of call to presidents/request for Elder FIR recommendations?
 1. Joseph will send out a request to the Academic chairs
3. Discussion
